

ROADSIDE ATTRACTIONS

in Mifflin & Juniata Counties Pennsylvania

Odd. Quirky. Unusual. Memorable.
You never know what you'll find along the roads of the Juniata River Valley.

Think you've seen everything?
Take another look around and share a selfie or two on our Facebook page or Instagram account.

McVeytown

The McVeytown Knight is the mascot for the local team of the Juniata Valley Youth Football League. He's on display near their field on the west side of McVeytown. Driving west on Rt. 522, turn right on dirt road just after the playground.

Route 103, Granville Township

The Clock on Tic Toc Lane. Sounds like a nursery rhyme. How could you not love that? 1 Tic Toc Lane, Lewistown.

Burnham

Kish Printing Indian—
This larger-than-life Indian was carved by James M. Hassinger around 1986. Great photo op—rain or shine! Kish Printing, 20 Windmill Hill, Burnham. 717-242-4382, www.kishprinting.com

Red lettering denotes a Chamber of Commerce member*

Burnham

Kovalchick Corp. Sign—
A small mining cart serves as the base to this company's sign. Created by Skip Vermeulin, the unique sign was made as a way to differentiate their metal recycling business from neighboring, Standard Steel. Kolvalchick Corp., 301 N Logan Blvd.

Lewistown

Too big to ignore— the Mifflin County Movie History Mural is on Monument Square. For a complete description of this mural and a list of other murals in Mifflin County, go to: www.juniatarivervalley.org. Shown in this photo are Lewistown Mayor Deb Bargo as she presents the key to the city to mural artist Dwight Kirkland in 2013.

McVeytown/Bellefonte

The peaked top of Jack's Mountain gives an usual vantage point to see two different valleys just by crossing the road. On one side is Big Valley; on the other is Ferguson Valley. If you see other cars parked at the top, there's a chance that you just missed a hang glider or that members of Jack's Mountain Hawk Watch are on the premises counting raptors and hawks.

Do you know of an unusual attraction that should be added to this list? Tell us about it!

Route 103, Granville Township

Angelo's Living Memorial is dedicated to past and present Mifflin County residents in the medical field, law enforcement and corrections, and firefighters. One of the stones is dedicated to the citizens killed in the terrorist attack on Sept. 11, 2001. Angelo's Hollow Inn, 5801 Rt. 103N, Lewistown. 717-248-9502. Find them on Facebook.

Downtown Lewistown

Fountain Park is the home of statues that represent our local holiday, Goose Day. Always ready for a photo opportunity, they're planted in cement behind the fountain at the end of East Market Street.

Belleville

The Belle of Saint Mary's is more commonly known as the Dairyland Cow since it last stood in the parking lot of the now leveled dairy/cafe/antique co-op. This fiberglass giant stands at the end of the lane to Hameau Farm, a girls camp and artist retreat. 6364 Route 655.

Mifflin

It may not look like much now, but the Book Indian Mound in Beale Township is the site of a burial mound and prehistoric village. Much of what was originally there was scattered over the surrounding fields before the importance of the site was discovered. For more information, go to www.juniatacountyhistoricalsociety.org.

Belleville

This life sized horse and buggy stand alongside Esh Appliances in Downtown Belleville. Generations of kids have had photos taken here. 3934 W. Main St.

Belleville

At the intersection of Route 655 and Green Lane, stands this beautiful airplane whirlingig. There are also a yellow windmill and a couple of smaller planes. All created by George Moore, these roadside attractions show you which way the wind blows! 86 Green Lane.

New Lancaster Valley

Willie is an 8' tall fiberglass bear that stands guard at the front door of the Wilderness Lodge, 20 Jack Pine Circle, Milroy.

Arch Rock Exit

Yes! There is actually an Arch Rock at the Arch Rock Exit. We couldn't find any interesting history or stories about this spot but it's pretty neat anyway. Take the Arch Rock exit off Route 322 at the west end of Juniata County. Head north on Arch Rock Road to the parking lot at 687 Arch Rock Rd. What You're looking for is straight ahead.

Mifflintown

Created by members of the Juniata Cultural Arts Committee, these murals have been on display near the Mifflintown Plaza since 2007. The group's logo is accompanied by two rural scenes created by Barb Ehrenzeller and Tessa Gross. Enter the plaza parking lot from Route 35. The murals are straight ahead, next to the bank's driveway.
